Wellington High School Building

FACULTY

E. S. KERR,
Superintendent of Wellington Schools

A. W. SHIELDS,
Principal of High School

SARAH HUNTRIDGE
Principal of Junior High School

E. S. KERR

Every house must have a head. W. H. S. has one in Mr. Kerr, our superintendent. He spends all his time with the affairs of this household. He often fills the position of teacher when there is a temporary vacancy, and he does it well too. He often slips quietly into the study hall, and even if we do not see him, we can feel his presence.

Mr. Kerr always has a smile and a friendly word for everyone, and he is never too busy to hear us. Some one has said, "If you get so deeply tangled up in your school affairs that you cannot see your way clear, go to Mr. Kerr and he will show you just how to get out."

A. W. SHIELDS

We just could not exist without Mr. Shields. He teaches chemistry and physics. He makes all the announcements, and is never angry when he has to repeat them for the Seniors. Our principal is kept very busy, for often he is expected to be at three or four places at the same time. There is not a time in which you don't hear someone rushing around, saying, "I want Mr. Shields." He is another one that always listens to us, and gives us a good answer too. It is hard to imagine Wellington High without Mr. Shields.

SARAH B. HUNTRIDGE

Miss Huntridge is the principal of the Junior High School and teaches mathematics in the seventh and eighth grades. However, this doesn't express at all what she means to us. She teaches not only her subject but also the highest of ideals. There is no one more interested in Junior High as an organization. In addition to this she is a kind, helpful friend of every pupil.

CHARLOTTE CARSON

The newest member on the faculty is Miss Carson, who came to us in the second semester. She teaches sewing and cooking to the Freshmen and Sophomores, and home decorating to the Juniors. Miss Carson does not say much, but she thinks a lot and most faithfully does the work of which a goodly share falls to her.

ALICE CHILD

She has played an important part in the drama of education of our high school this year. During the first semester she trains for a public career the brilliant senior orators, which this high school produces. In the second semester she teaches them Business English. Besides she imparts her knowledge to two Junior and two Sophomore divisions of English. Miss Child acts as faculty adviser to the Hi Times Staff, and to the Alpha Lambda Society. We appreciate her jolly, and good natured manner, and her untiring efforts in our behalf.

RUTH ELLERY

Last year Miss Ellery came to instruct the Junior High students in physiology and general science, and the sophomores in zoology and biology. Miss Ellery is quick witted, and at every turn she sees an opportunity to help someone. She is the Junior High girls' basketball supervisor.

MILDRED MORRIS

For two years she has been an inspiration to us, in our language department. She is ever ready to help all who wish information on the subject. (Of course it is understood that the seniors need none.) Miss Morris teaches Freshman Latin, Caesar, Virgil, first and second year French. She is also the faculty adviser of the Y. W. Club, and the chaperon of the basketball girls. She fills these positions perfectly.

ANNA MARTIN

We pardon Miss Martin for calling Wade, Nash, and Keith, Arnold, because she is a new member of the Senior High faculty. She teaches the combined courses of history and American government, economics and sociology. This is a good course for any Senior to take. Civics teaches him how to vote, and Economics how to utilize his money. Miss Martin knows how to tackle the social problems in sociology.

LILLIE M. WALTON

For three years she has helped enlarge the mental capacities of Wellington High students with Algebra I, Plane and Solid Geometry, and advanced Algebra. This year she has had six classes every day. Miss Walton is always full of fun, and greatly in demand for parties.

H. W. LEHNING

Mr. Lehning, the carpenter and manual training teacher of our school, has been with us for three years. During this time he has also acted as coach for the Junior and Senior High girls and the Junior High boys. His department has given two exhibitions of its excellent work. The last one which was given this year surely showed Mr. Lehning's teaching ability.

HELEN BIGELOW WHITE

The responsibility that comes with seventh, eighth and ninth grade English falls on Mrs. White's shoulders. She is noted for her loyalty to this school and her willingness to cooperate in all matters. Some one has said of Mrs. White, "If she wishes to accomplish something she will put the work accross or die in the attempt."

JEANNE WILLIAMS

This year Miss Williams has devoted her entire time to our school music. She conducted the Senior High Glee Club, the orchestra, the Junior High Chorus, the grade's music and assisted the students in their music memory contest.

During this school year, she trained the grade children for a concert, the Senior High Glee Club sang in chapel and at different entertainments, and as the close to a successful year, they, too, gave a concert. As a musical person Miss Williams has surely shown her ability and knowledge.

G. S. OWEN

There is an old sayng that if a person is kept busy, he won't get into mischief. "Yip" certainly doesn't have time for mischief. He's coach of every athletic activity in the school. In addition to this he teaches two divisions of History II, and one class of History III. Although this is Mr. Owen's first year here, he has already made himself liked by every one.

D. G. SWANGER

Agriculture, one of the most important subjects offered in this High School, has been directed by Mr. Swanger for four years. If it is a favor you want done ask Mr. Swanger. He is always in for a good time, and you may hear his chirp at every ball game. He has an enviable reputation as a speaker, and the High School students always look forward to the chapel when Mr. Swanger is going to speak.

MRS. BARRICK

In the office she is Mr. Kerr's right hand, answering telephone, letters, etc. If you wish anything from the office, she always takes time to help you. She keeps study hall during the fifth period. Altho Mrs. Barrick does not teach any classes, we feel that she belongs to our faculty.

Class Poem

'Tis twelve short years we've plodded along
And many good times those years we've had.
We've had our share of trouble too,
But let's forget them, not be sad.

Through all our struggles we've emerged
And now, we've reached our toilsome end;
Though we must leave thee, Wellington High,
You'll always be to us our friend.

We've shared in the sports of W. H. S.,
Hi Y, and Alpha Lambda, too,
In Glee Club, we have taken part;
Y. W. made us our friends so true.

The teacher too, we'll ne'er forget,
For they have been our friends as well.
The pranks we've played on one and all,
And the games where we have helped to yell.

Our high school days are over now,
And we must to the future look.
Our lives are what we make them be—
Just as an ever-changing book.

Now we must from your doors go out,
And each of us will go our way;
But sweet will be our thoughts of thee,
Where e'er we are, some far off day.

Now we, the class of Twenty-Three,
Wish thee, our dear old Wellington High—
The best of fortune and success,
Those treasures gold can never buy.

Alice Loveland

Class History

In September 1911, a company of sixty-five volunteers enlisted for twelve years service. Our camp was located in the Wellington Public School building. Mr. R. H. Kinnison was our commander-in-chief, and Miss Williamson our captain.

This company was different from the usual company of volunteers, for it was composed of both boys and girls who were starting their training for their future places in life.

For seven years we loyally served our time, marching under the national colors, taking part in all the drills, contests, and battles into which we were called. Although we never won distinction in these battles, we were known as fair fighters and good losers.

At the end of our seventh year we celebrated by having a picnic at Sugar Hill. This picnic will be well remembered by all the members who attended it. Here we were tested with water, (it rained) instead of fire, and many uniforms were ruined that day.

In the eighth year we selected our company colors "Green and Gold", and a motto "Conare et Confidere" which means "Try and Trust", and a flower "Yellow Rose." At the same time we elected our first officers. They were president, Emma Leupin; vice-pres., Keith Arnold; secretary, Louise Brouse; treasurer, Elberta Watters. At the close of this year under the direction of Captain Huntridge we presented the operetta "Queen of the Garden."

Now having been drilled in all the elementary parts of warfare we entered upon a larger and more active camp-life. The first year we were called Freshmen and we were the last company to have the honor of being classed as Freshmen instead of Ninth Graders.

During the first and second years we served under the officers elected in the eighth year, but at the beginning of our Junior year we elected new offiers. They were president, Frank Brenneman; vice-president, Charles Lashley; secretary and treasurer, Pearl Livermore.

In our Senior year we again elected officers. These were president, Graydon Jewett; vice-president, Marie Gray; secretary and treasurer, Alma Sheffield; advisory board, Emma Leupin, Pearl Livermore, Elberta Watters, Charles Lashley, Ford Stacey and Keith Arnold.

Our company enjoyed during the last four years many social affairs such as company parties, high school parties, sleigh-rides, weiner roasts, harvest and spring dances, Junior-Senior receptions, and picnics. Also during this time some of our members took part in camp athletics and established very good records. At Hi Y and Y. W. meetings we were always well represented and the Hi Times staff was never complete without some of our noble company. This year Florence Wight of our company is editor-in-chief. Other notable members of our company are Gertrude Witbeck and Dean McClellan, who represented our high school in the Music Memory Contest at Elyria and Columbus.

Some of our company were transferred to other camps for a time, coming back again to the Wellington camp. Others that were transferred never came back, but faithfully served their time in other camps. A large number deserted. Only one of our company, Martha Neal, was called for higher service in the summer of 1921.

Many have joined our company from year to year from camps at Pittsfield, Brighton, Rochester, Huntington, and Penfield, and more distant camps.

So our numbers have changed until we are left with thirty-three to receive their discharge June 14, 1923.

Of these only seven remain of the original volunteers. They are Marjorie Fisher, Alice Loveland, Elberta Watters, Florence Wight, Gertrude Witbeck, Charles Lashley, and Dean McClellan. Six of these have seen continuous service in Wellington camp while Dean McClellan has served some of his time in Brighton.

And now our twelve years of service are finished. But the class of '23 will continue to "Try and Trust" and our names will be seen in the future history of the United States.

Class Song

By Gertrude Witbeck

As we come to the end of our High School course
And we think of the race we have run,
We think of the pleasures that we have had
And the obstacles we've o'ercome.
And we think of the friends that we met each day,
And the ties that have held us all.
We know that our hearts will indeed be sad
When we can't return next fall.

Class Prophecy

"Wait 'till I choke this thing; now what was it?" asked the sun tanned, overall clad individual as he shut off the engine of his "Stuble-Jumper DeLuxe" tractor and hopped to the ground.

"Why, hello there, Elbert. I thought you dead and departed for the angelic realms long ago—don't you know me?" queried the jewel bedecked damsed from the limousine.

There was a moment in which puzzled astonishment was written on the farmer's face, then—"Sure I do, you're Imogene Canfield."

"Well, I used to be, back in old W. H. S. but now,—well, he's got lots of money and he is certainly good to me—even if he is a little bald. He took me to Boston last week and we saw Wade Nash play "Hamlet" at the new Universal Theater. He surely was great. Graydon Jewett was there too. He's living in Chicago now, on the money he made selling Chinese oil stock. We heard the "International Concert Co.", too. I never thought "Dutch" and "Beans" and Ben would ever jump as high and hard as that; Alice Loveland and Louise Brouse are with them this year, you know. They're doing fine work. Alice married a pianist from Bland. I've forgotten his name.. have to whistle it anyway."

"I remember some of your W. H. S. whistling so never mind a demonstration," laughed the young man; "but say, Gene, I saw a few of the old bunch at the State Fair this summer. "Bill" Murray was there with a lot of stock. He's got a regular horse ranch over in Rochester and of course he took a pile of blue ribbons. Litta Mitchell was there. I didn't get a chance to speak to her, but I heard her make a speech (some sort of social reform, I guess). The subject was "Millions now Living are Already Dead."

"Yes," from the young lady, "Litta always was rather candid and emphatic. What do you know about it, Esther Hege has a large concession at Coney Island and is having the time of her life. Dorothy Kellog is helping her and they are makng heaps of money. I was shopping yesterday and as I passed that big Broadway movie house, behold, a big sign, 'Special, all star cast, featuring Florence Wight with Keith Arnold, supported by Kathryn Keeling, Marie Gray, Kenneth Brouse, Elberta Watters and Hazel Livermore in the Sen-Macket super-production, 'Why Are the Wild Waves?', directed by Charles Lashley'. I thought it was some cast so I went in and it was the best picture I had ever seen."

"Well, what do you know about that! I didn't know that any of that bunch were in the movies! Where is Gertrude Witbeck? I haven's heard of her in five years."

"Oh, she's with the Chicago Opero Company, now. She was a marvelous success. And Pearl Livermore is writing another book about psychology. This one is called 'Synthetic Mentality',—too deep for me. Anna Sheffield is helping her with her rehearsal work. Do you ever hear from 'Ted' Rogers?"

"You bet I do! I hear from him every day. He runs a mail plane between Huntington and Pittsfield. He's due in about two minutes. I heard that Mildred Mackin is in Borneo. She has charge of a mission school. She converted the original 'Wild Man' and then married him."

"That sounds like 'Mickey.' She always did have a mind of her own. So did Phyllis Hughes. She's teaching dramatic art in Oberlin. Emma Leupin married a Chautauqua lecturer and spends her time writing speeches for him. Lyle Rockwood is leading man in a musical comedy on the coast and has won lots of popularity. I saw Grace Litchfield the other day in New Jersey. She is the wife of a saxophone artist and all she has to do is spend the money that he makes. Have you heard anything regarding Bertha Edwards?"

"Yes, I saw her in Elyria. She's justice of the juvenile court now and Marjorie Fisher has just been appointed Chief of Police in the same city."

"But how did you happen along here?"

"Well, you see, Percival, my husband, is a lawyer, and I was going to Columbus to meet him and take him home. He has just won a case. I knew you ran this horse-radish plantation so I thought I would stop and see you. But I must go now, it's getting late. By the way! have you seen 'Pink' since commencement?"

"Yes, he's over behind that knoll, digging horse-radish. He'd be a good hired man if he didn't eat so much. Well, if you must go, goodbye."

"Yes, I really must go, or Percival will be worried—goodbye."

And as the big car sped down the road, the agriculturist might have been heard to mutter, "Gee! I wish this thing had a starter on it."

Charles Willard.

Class Will

We, the Class of 1923, of the High School of Wellington, County of Lorain, and state of Ohio, being about twelve years of age and of sound and disposing mind and memory, do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, hereby revoking and annulling any and all other wills made by us heretofore.

FIRST. Our will is that our just debts (including class dues) and funeral expenses be paid out of our class treasury as soon after our decease as shall be found convenient.

SECOND. We give, devise and bequeath in our turn as follows:-

GENERAL DISPOSALS

I. To the whole student body we will the pep and the many enjoyable times we have had at our Senior parties to be distributed equally among next years classes, and to be used only under the supervision of the faculty.

II. To the Juniors we leave our "Senior Privileges" assuring them they never have been used enough by us, to be damaged in the least.

III. We bequeath to the Sophomores our wonderful record for getting to school on time, said record to be always held by them in sacred memory of the Class of 1923.

IV. To the Freshman class we leave a most valuable literary composition written by some of our most prominent members, namely. Alma Sheffield, Litta Mitchell, Imogene Canfield, Grayden Jewett and Mildred Mackin, on the subject "Getting by with the Least Study or How to Stall and Bluff in Recitations."

With this disposal goes the request that this book be made a part of the required Freshman studies.

SPECIAL DISPOSALS

(a) Lyle Rockwood leaves his horse shoe pitching abilities to the Barnyard Golf Club of the Sophomore class.

(b1) Charles Willard wills his excess mechanical drawing knowledge to Mr. Lehning who shall give it out in small measures to his next years students.

(b2) Elbert Pratt also wills to Mr. Lehning a sample box of "Dr. Kilmore's Digestive Regulator," with the proviso that Henry William give each student a pill before and after each portion of "Pinky's" surplus knowledge of mechanical drawing.

(c) Gertrude Witbeck, Dean McClellan, Ben Menieg and Myron Kelsey will their musical accomplishments to the Glee Club and High School Orchestra, knowing how badly said accomplishments will be needed next year.

(d) "Ted" Rogers wils a generous share of his strength and muscle to Homer Harris. Since Homer has been appointed assistant Truant Officer the aforesaid strength and muscle will come in handy in handling would-be truants.

(e) Grace Litchfield wills her capability for making library tables to "Jeff" Mohrman knowing that it will be well preserved.

(f) Alice Loveland wills her collection of original poetry to Kingdon Fast to be held in reserve until he is called upon to write a poem for Hi Times.

(g) Pearl Livermore, Marjorie Fisher, Elberta Watters, Marie Gray and Keith Arnold will their skill in achieving perfect grades to Miss Child who shall bestow them where most needed.

(h) Kathryn Keeling wills her good looks and cosmetics to Betty Miller.

(Subject to recall when the Fostoria Boys' Band gives another concert in our Opera House.)

(i) Esther Hoge hands down to her sister Ruth, the task of keeping on the Honor Roll.

(j) Wade Nash and Dorothy Kellog leave a sum of money not less than thirty cents (.30) nor more than thirty thousand dollars ($30,000.00) to be held in trust by the Wellington High School Alumni Association for use in keeping the Lockers from floating away when the football team leaves the water turned on all night after a victorious football game.

(k) "Bill" Murray wills fifty dollars ($50.00) to "Yip" Owen, said amount to be spent in feeding his dog "Fritz" until Home Economics classes begin serving lunches next fall.

(l) Phyllis Hughes wishes her inquisitiveness to be given to Helen Watts. This is to be handed out in small amounts until she becomes a Senior.

(m) Kenneth Brouse bequeaths his late partnership in the tailoring business and all his accomplishments along this line to Pete Ray.

(n) To Miss Daisy Rook is left the exclusive right to accept all "favors and dates" hitherto bestowed upon Emma Leupin by the Freshman boys.

(o) Since Florence Wight finds no one as capable of using her ability as editor of Hi Times to as good an advantage as Lee Jackson, she therefore wills it to him.

(p) Louise Brouse wills her voluminous vocal organs to Naomi Wise to be used in helping the girls root at the Amherst football clashes.

(q) Two of our well-known philanthropists, Bertha Edwards and Hazel Livermore, having recently returned from a trip to Egypt and having brought back with them a most valuable relic from Tutankhamoun's Tomb, namely: a small piece of King Tut's last upper plate of false teeth, leave by will this most highly treasured possession to the Faculty as a start towards a High School Museum.

It is suggested that this museum be placed in the Observatory where all may have free access to it.

In testimony whereof we have set our hand to this out last will and testament at Wellington High School, this ninth (9th) day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three.

THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1923.
Per Charles Lashley.

The foregoing instrument was signed by said class of 1923 in our presence and by them published and declared as and for their last will and testament and at their request and in their presence and in the presence of each other we hereunto subscribe our names as attesting witnesses at Wellington, O., this ninth day of May A. D. 1923.

Valedictory

By Pearl Livermore

"Tis education forms the common mind,
Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined."

As we have labored within thy walls, Dear School, we have carried our motto as a torch to light our way.

At first sight the flame of a torch may seem but a simple thing, but the keen observer sees that is it composed of three cones, the inner cone, the intermediate cone, and the outer cone.

The inner cone of our torch is the word "Try." How full of meaning is this little word. It has helped us to seize the opportunity, to be patient, to persevere,—thus making our difficulties easier. For has it not been said, "Seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you"?

The intermediate cone of a flame is that part in which the combustible vapors are decomposed, the small particles of carbon rendering the flame luminous. By this light we have seen the word "And", which has given us hope that there was and is more to follow.

The almost invisible outer cone has clearly revealed the last word of our motto "Trust." This has given us confidence to continue our work, to do our very best, to overcome any obstacles that have lain in the path. May we continue to carry this motto individually so that we may avoid ruts and narrowing circles.

It is not with joy that we, the class of 1923, realize we must say farewell to thee, Beloved School, and to thy faculty whose ideals have inspired us with an appreciation of all that is honorable and noble in life. In these few short years we have learned to love thee, Dear School, and we hope that some little spark from our torch may continue to cast its gleam for those whom we leave behind. It is thou who hast moulded our youth and created friendships that time and distances cannot sever .May we continue to be loyal to thee, our Alma Mater.

In the future
"While we think of thee, dear friend,
All losses are restored, and sorrows end."

SYNOPSIS OF "ALL-OF-A-SUDDEN PEGGY."

Lady Crackenthorpe with her son, Lord Crackenthorpe and her daughter, Millicent, is spending some time at Hawkhurst, the lord's country home in Surrey, England.

Lord Crackenthorpe has taken up the study of spiders. The widow of the late Professor O'Mara F. R. S., authorty on trapdoor spiders is a guest at the house at Lord Crackenthorpe's invitation.

Lady Crackenthorpe believes that Mrs. O'Mara intends that Peggy shall marry her son. She confers with her brother, Major Archie Phipps and they decide that there is only one way to prevent the match. Jimmy, the lady's younger son, must come home and "dazzle" Peggy, thus distracting her attention from Anthony.

Jimmy arrives and agrees to help them to save the family. Jimmy at once falls in love with Peggy and proposes. She refuses him and tells him that she wishes to spend her time in writing. Then—"all-of-a-sudden" Peggy decides that her mother must marry the lord. Complications at once arise but after many trying experiences, things are arranged to suit all but Lady Crackenthorpe, who gives in with good grace. Then—"all-of-a-sudden," once more, Peggy decides that she wants to marry Jimmy, after all.

CHARLES LASHLEY, '23, CAPTAIN

"Chuck's" beauty surely did suffer this season, but he didn't seem to mind. The honor of being football captain only caused "Chuck" to tackle harder in the pigskin sport. Maybe he wasn't very heavy but speed and spirit count a lot. "Chuck" always delivered the goods. He will be greatly missed next year.

ROBERT BARBOR, '24

Robert, in other words, "Bob" is not noted for his ambition. In fact, I saw "Bob" run just once—at the Amherst game. For once, there was something more thrilling about him than his auburn curls and the rooters told him about it. He was one of our best men and we're glad that he has one more year. Great possibilities, "Bob."

BEN MENIEG, 23

Ben is another fellow who can play football! Yes, he guarded—never did they pass him. He was a good man on the team and he'll be missed next year. We hope you'll be as good a player in the game of "Life" as you were in football, Ben.

CHARLES RAY, '24

"Shiek" is one of those tall (?) dark fellows that all the girls are wild about (?) They say it's because of his resigning manner! Never mind, he was always right there, chuck full of signals when we took the gridiron. He was always like a needle in a haystack, due to his monstrous (?) size. One more year, good luck!

MYRON KELSEY, '23

"Dutch" surely was a good-natured fellow. He always managed to come up smiling after landing near the bottom of the pile, in football. He was a valuable man on the team and the school is sorry to lose him this year.

ANDREW WATTERS, '24

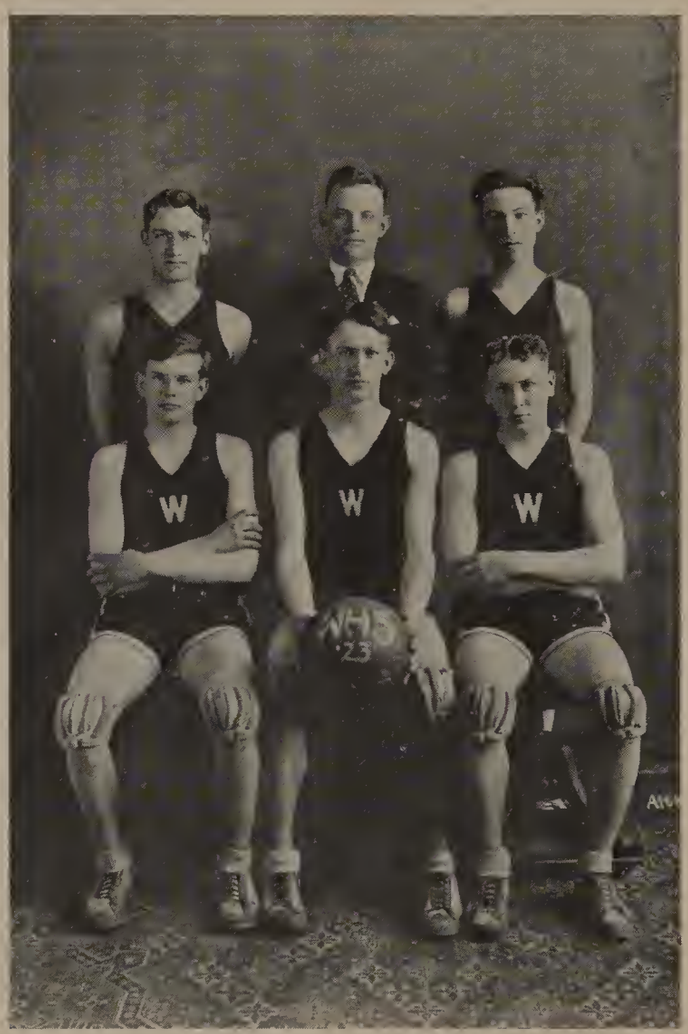

"Andy" is one of those fair god-like fellows described in mythology. He doesn't look as though he could or would play football but, say—he can! He was a good basketball man and you should have seen him, on the track! He's on the book for one more year.

FRANKLIN SIMONSON, '25

"Simie" is a "whale" of a football player. He plays tackle and the rooters always pity the man he "flops." We are glad "Simie" has two more years in W. H. S.

HUGH WILLIAMS, '25

"Tub" is another of those underfed children. He says there's nothing like a cup of milk, three times a day, to make one strong. He must have practiced this theory for he was able to roll them down like ten pins. He's a heavy guard and the position remains open to him for two more years.

W. H. S. Boys' Basketball Team

HAROLD PROSSER, '24, CAPTAIN

"Shorty" is a man we are proud to introduce. He is a sure enough star in both basketball and baseball. In addition to this he was on the track team. "Shorty" almost had a corner on captainship for he held that position on basketball, baseball and track teams. Yes, he'll still be with the colors next year.

KENNETH BROUSE, '23

"Kenny" is another man we are not ashamed of. I should say not! He tipped in many a point for the maroon and white, in basketball. "Try" is "Kenny's" middle name. He didn't get to play football all season on account of an injured shoulder but he's got the "stuff" just the same. Success, to you, Kenny!

WARREN GADFIELD, '24

"Gaddy" was only a budding athlete last year but he blossomed out in all the glory of a sure enough star guard, this year. He's plucky and took enough "grief" to last him a lifetime. Besides, he was football manager and played a good game in baseball. He will be back next year.

FORD STACEY

Stacey was our star football man. He's a hard fighter at both football and basketball. He's scored many a point for the colors and will be missed in future years.

DORRIL MURCH, '25

Here's our handsome little sophomore guard. He surely can heat them up. Don't rave so about his hair—just wait till you see him play basketball. There will be plenty of chance for he has two more years to star in. Keep it up, Murch.

HAROLD KEPLER, '26

Yes, we know he's only a freshie but he's all right just the same. He was a great discovery and will be worked hard for three years. He shone in the Amherst game. Forward march, "Kepp."

FOREST MOHRMAN, '25

"Frosty" was out for basketball but he shone like a bonfire in track. Yes, he's another of those cute sophomores. Good luck next year!

W. H. S. Girls' Basketball Squad

Junior High School Girls' Basketball Squad

DORIS ZIMMERMAN, '24, CAPTAIN

Doris is our star forward. She surely can make baskets and we pity the one that guards her. She was out for track too. We'll be glad to see her back again next year.

CORRINE MURRAY, '24

Here's a girl who can make a reputation at any position on the floor but she specializes in "forwardship." Good luck next year, Corrine!

VIRGINIA SORENSEN, '25

Virginia is our other crack forward. She's little but she's a regular "whizz". She'll be back two more years.

ALICE LEUPIN, '25, MANAGER

Oh, look at that forward flop! Alice surely does tear them to pieces, cleanly. The ball seldom passes her and she gets it, even if it does. Few baskets were made when she guarded. Two more big years ahead, Alice.

LUCILE ROICE, '25

Here's another star guard. She's a human windmill—Lucile. She'll be right there for two more years and we're not sorry.

OLEITA LOWERY, '24.

Our supply of good forwards is not yet ended. Olieta is one of the best. She's tall and a sure shot. She's helped us to win many a victory. Fight on!

DOROTHY WITBECK, '24

May I introduce our center? She surely can play. Dorothy was always right there with "the goods." She has one more year. Keep up your reputation, Dorothy.

W. H. S. Baseball Team

LYLE ROCKWOOD, '23

Rockwood shines in baseball alone, but this is an age of specialization. He's the man on first base, who has helped make the team this year. He's been in four years and we're going to miss him after he graduates.

JAMES SOLIDA, '24

"Solly" is that little fellow you see dressed up in the catcher's outfit when W. H. S. takes the field. In spite of the fact that he appears lost in his clothes he always gets the ball. Never mind, "Solly", good things come in small packages. We'll see you again next year.

PAUL SHUSTER, '24

Shuster is the man to be spotted on the third point of the diamond. He surely can stop them in either baseball or football. We'll be glad to see you back next year, Shuster.

WADE NASH, '23

Nash is the one that tosses the pill across the plate, in baseball. He's hard to beat and will be greatly missed. He "passes out" this year.

KINGDON FAST, '24

"King" fast? Ah, not very, in football. But it isn't all speed that counts, after all. "King" was a reliable man and should be a star next year. Besides football, he was also the baseball manager. Good luck, next year, "King"!

WILLIAM SPONSELLER, '25

"Bill" is another sophomore that everybody raves about. He played second base in baseball. He was out for basketball this year. Make it first next year "Bill."

CLAYTON BEAL

"Clate" was a valuable man on the football team this season. He was only a sub but when he went in, the game moved along, just the same. He was a star in baseball. He'll be back two more years.

PROSPEROUS YEAR AT THE OBERLIN BUSINESS COLLEGE

The Oberlin Business College is passing through another prosperous year, the attendance being even larger than last year. This school has now come to occupy a great place in training young men and women for business and office positions and for teaching commercial branches in high schools and business colleges. It now has the highest standing given to any business college in Ohio, by the State School Department at Columbus. It was the first business college to be placed upon the Accredited List of Ohio colleges, in 1915, by which authority it offers a two-year commercial teachers' course which leads to the State Certificate. It is said to have more graduates holding State certificates than all other similar schools combined.

The Oberlin Business College is the school for high school graduates for it urges all young people to complete the full high school course before entering a business college, and as a result it has an older and better educated class of students than any other school of the kind. This accounts for the great reputation which this school has gained. Any of our present seniors who think of entering a business college would do well to enter this school.

Why Nothing Compares With

CHEVROLET

For Economical Transportation

Even the high standard of our preceding line has been far surpassed by the 1923 Superior models.

As the world's largest producers of quality cars, and also of closed models, we have achieved a volume of production that enables us to offer the utmost per dollar of price in economical transportation, full equipment and handsome design.

This new 5-Passenger Touring Car has vacuum feed, with tank in rear, drum type headlights, with legal lenses, high hood, stream lines and curtains opening with doors and spiral bevel rear axel gear.
